LEADERSHIP

Own Your Style: Leading with Confidence, Clarity & Your Unique Brand

► Leah Roe, The Perk

Today's most effective leaders lead with authenticity, clarity, and purpose. In this energizing session, you'll explore evolving leadership expectations, define your unique leadership brand, and learn to align your style with both your team's needs and your personal strengths. Walk away with greater clarity on your "why" and the confidence to lead as your true self.

HUMAN RESOURCES

The Future is Now: Addressing AI in Your Business

► Ashley McNulty, Godfrey & Kahn, S.C.

It seems like every day we hear about a new way that businesses can leverage AI in the workplace. However, with those potential capabilities comes new potential risks. During this session, we discuss considerations for using AI-based tools in hiring, employment, and termination decisions, as well as federal legal guidance regarding employers' use of AI. We also talk through the key elements that employers should consider when drafting an AI policy.

HUMAN RESOURCES

From Avoidance to Accountability: The Tough Talk Blueprint for Construction Leaders

► Traci Austin, Elevated Talent Consulting

In construction, tough conversations are essential for safety, quality, and results—but too often avoided. This practical, high-energy session introduces the Tough Talk Blueprint, a proven framework for delivering effective feedback, coaching, and mentoring. Learn how to tackle team challenges early and turn them into opportunities for stronger performance.

ACCOUNTING

2025 Tax Update

► John Folsom, Wegner CPAs

With tax laws changing rapidly, construction companies must stay informed to make smart financial decisions. This session, led by John Folsom, CPA and Partner at Wegner

CPAs, will cover key 2025 federal and Wisconsin tax updates affecting contractors. Topics include depreciation, SALT and QBI deductions, and construction-related tax incentives. Attendees will gain practical insights on how these changes impact their business and what actions to take before year-end.

PAYROLL

ABC Apprenticeships

- Doug Witte, Boardman & Clark, LLP
- ABC Apprenticeship Staff

With ongoing labor shortages in construction, apprenticeships offer a valuable solution. ABC of Wisconsin's growing apprenticeship program produces skilled graduates, but many employers still have questions about hiring apprentices. This session covers key topics including how apprentices are paid (Paid and Unpaid Related Instruction), prevailing wage requirements (including benefits), and the use of Apprenticeship Loan Agreements as a retention tool. Gain clarity on these legal and practical aspects to see how apprenticeships can support your workforce needs.

MARKETING

Right People, Right Message: Targeting Strategies for Sales and Staffing Success

► Lyndsey Bishop & Randy Hawke, Mid-West Family Madison

Join Randy and Lyndsey as they share insider tips on how to identify and connect with your ideal audience. Learn proven strategies for attracting both new business and top talent through targeted messaging that drives real results.

LEADERSHIP

Difficult Conversations in the Workplace

► Paul Bartleson, Kraemer Brothers

Every workplace has tough conversations—from giving feedback to addressing conflict. This session offers practical strategies to handle these moments with confidence, clarity, and respect. Learn how to prepare, manage emotions, and keep dialogue productive, even when the stakes are high. Walk away with tools to turn difficult conversations into opportunities for growth and stronger collaboration.

Chad Stuart

Holmes Murphy & Associates

Worker Wellbeing & Mental Health In Construction

Each year, more workers die by suicide than from all other job-related injuries combined. Why? Stress, anxiety, and other mental health challenges are deeply tied to safety and wellbeing on the job. In this session, we'll explore how to support your team's mental health and respond to someone in crisis. Together, we'll face the realities—and find the courage to move forward.

Wednesday Schedule

HUMAN RESOURCES

Background Checks: Making Effective & Lawful Use of Information Obtained

► Ashley McNulty, Godfrey & Kahn, S.C.

Do you conduct or outsource background checks during onboarding? This session covers key legal considerations, including the Fair Credit Reporting Act, and offers guidance to help HR professionals reduce risks when using arrest and conviction records in hiring decisions.

HUMAN RESOURCES

Demystifying Benefits Funding: Fully Insured, Self-Funded & Captives Explained

► Laura Bermudo, Luke Duenser, Colton Haas, Charlie Parker & Legal, Hausmann Group

This expert-led panel will break down the key employee benefits funding models—what they are, how they work, and what to consider. Ideal for HR professionals and business leaders looking to better understand their options and make informed, strategic decisions.

ACCOUNTING

Digital Transformation Readiness/ERP Transition

► Matt Gelb, VTSP, MCTS, Wipfli LLP

Construction and real estate companies are under mounting pressure to modernize outdated systems and streamline operations—but jumping into a new ERP or launching a digital transformation without a clear plan often leads to costly setbacks. This session will walk you through what it really means to be “ready” for a digital transformation or ERP transition—beyond just picking the right software.

PAYROLL

Wage & Hour Compliance Pitfalls in the Construction Industry

► Doug Witte, Boardman & Clark, LLP

Wage and hour laws present unique challenges for construction employers. This session will clarify what counts as “hours worked” — including travel, training, waiting time, and prevailing wage — and how it affects overtime. We'll also cover rules for employees with multiple pay rates, exempt status, and other compliance issues, along with trends in FLSA litigation. Gain practical insight to help avoid costly wage and hour claims.

MARKETING

10 Best Practices to Maximize Your Website

► Nathan Gerred, Saturn Lounge

Discover 10 of the top best practices to turn your website into a lead generating machine. This session will leave you with actionable insight you can use to improve user experience, increase visibility, and drive meaningful results.

KEYNOTE LUNCHEON

Worker Wellbeing & Mental Health In Construction

► Chad Stuart, Holmes Murphy & Associates

Mental health is an invisible crisis in the construction industry. Nationally in construction, more workers die annually by suicide than by all other fatal workplace injuries combined. What is it about construction that contributes to this crisis? Recent studies show a significant number of workplace injuries may be related to mental health challenges, such as stress and anxiety. During our time, we will learn how to support the wellbeing needs of your workers and how to respond to someone in crisis. Together, we will discover that the struggle is real and explore options to move forward courageously.
